The Cambodian Center for Human Rights ("CCHR") Launches a Series of Modules on Fair Trial Rights

CCHR’s Fair Trial Rights Project ("FTRP") is pleased to announce the launch of a series of online modules on fair trial rights to build the public’s knowledge of such rights. Each module includes a detailed description of each fair trial right, an infographic, and an interactive quiz. The videos presenting various fair trial rights will also be released alongside the modules.

The event aims:

• To raise awareness amongst the public on fair trial rights;
• To present education platform and how to access the modules and videos on CCHR’s Human Rights Portal; and
• To engage the public through interactive quizzes on fair trial rights.

The event will start with a welcome speech by CCHR’s Executive Director, Ms. Chak Sopheap, and a representative from the Swedish Embassy and then proceed with a presentation of the modules on CCHR’s Human Rights Portal. Afterward, CCHR’s FTR Project will play the videos produced alongside the modules and present the online quizzes on fair trial rights. The participants will have the opportunity to take the quizzes, and the winners will receive reusable bags inscribed with the quote “Everyone is entitled to access justice.” The event will end with closing remarks by Diakonia Country Director and Mr. SEK Sophorn, a member of CCHR board.
