BRIEFING NOTE:

Experiences of journalists covering the Cambodia-Thailand border conflict

- CCHR interviewed 24 journalists who covered the conflict
- Here are the 5 key themes that emerged:

1. A lack of administrative & physical safeguards compounded their sense of insecurity

2. There was a scarcity of timely, accurate information provided by the RGC to journalists

3. They feared being accused of criminal activity for their reporting

4. There were differing standards for different media outlets

5. Various factors created the conditions for disinformation to spread online
