LGBTIQ+

An individual who feels romantically and/or sexually attracted to individuals of more than one gender.

Bisexual

All persons, regardless of sexual orientation or gender identity, are entitled to the full enjoyment of all human rights. This includes the absolute right of all persons to be free from discrimination of all kinds, including the right to non-discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation and gender identity, as enshrined in Article 2 of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights and Article 2 of the International Covenant on Economic Social and Cultural Rights.

Currently, the Cambodian legal framework does not contain explicit protections against discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation and gender identity and expression (SOGIE).

During its third Universal Periodic Review (UPR) cycle, Cambodia accepted four recommendations relating to the introduction of anti-discrimination laws and policies explicitly prohibiting discrimination on the basis of SOGIE.

Recommendation 110.50:

“Adopt, in consultation with civil society organizations, comprehensive legislation and policies against discrimination and violence based on sexual orientation or gender identity, and guarantee their implementation through all public entities, in particular in the education, health and labour sectors.”
