Cambodia’s Women in Land Conflict

Women’s security of tenure is essential to ensuring gender equality and the enjoyment of several human rights.

Yet in Cambodia...

- 4 in 5* women affected by land conflict feel their land tenure is insecure
- 24.4% of women affected by land conflict have been evicted from their homes
- 73.1% of women affected by land conflict had experienced harassment or intimidation by the authorities
- 43.9% of women reported that their children had dropped out from school due to the land conflict
- 46.2% of women affected by land conflict had considered committing suicide
- 98.2% of women reported their mental health suffered as a result of the land conflict
- 23% of women in relationships affected by land conflict identified as victims of domestic abuse
- 53.9% of those women had never experienced abuse by their partner before the land conflict
- 98% of those evictions were violent

*According to research by CCHR, involving 612 women affected by land conflict in 12 provinces and Phnom Penh

To learn more, read the full report at www.cchrcambodia.org/womeninlandconflict